DARTMOUTH COLLEGE
HANOVER, NEW HAMPSHIRE

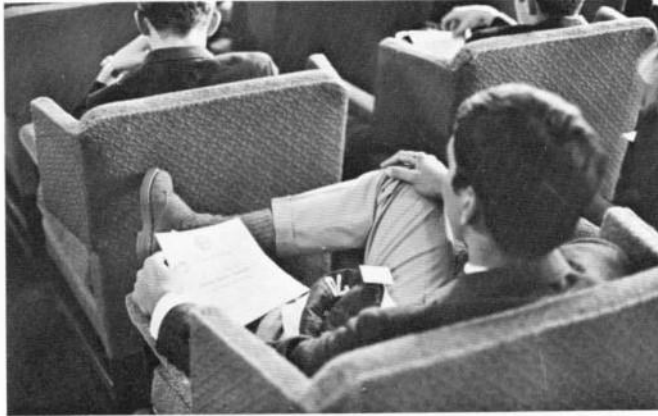

A student publication not affiliated with the Freshman Office

These opening remarks will not enumerate the many specifics of Dartmouth life. They are not intended to be a "word to the wise" sermon to incoming freshmen; nor do they attempt to describe the "Dartmouth Experience". Rather, they will try to express the feelings of one Dartmouth undergraduate about his college; the college that will be your school for the next four years, indeed, for the rest of your life.

In a very real sense, Dartmouth is a kind of paradox. Rooted and steeped in a rich historical tradition, the College is at the same time fed and nourished on the antithesis and rejection of that tradition —deliberate and purposeful change.

Good or bad, Dartmouth probably remains as the most tradition conscious college in the world. It is the traditions - the beanies, the tug-of-war, the bonfires - that form the core of the nostalgic memories of alumni. To these alumni, such traditions represent that part of the College which they can most easily recall. Thus, it is these traditions that indirectly endear Dartmouth men to their college forever.

The modern world, however, places little value on tradition for its own sake. And like it or not, Dartmouth is a part of that world. And in spite of herself she thrives on that hard and caustic realism that tempers tradition with new ideals and eventually puts it to death. The abolishment of many Dartmouth traditions is quite justifiable and long overdue. It is not malicious destruction of traditions that exists at Dartmouth. It is the replacement of the outmoded and irrelevant with the contemporary and meaningful.

The modern world that is fast diffusing into the hills of New Hampshire has no need for tradition. However, Dartmouth owes much of her greatness to her longevity and the traditions that should logically be present. The age of the College affords her much prestige when compared to many contemporary institutions. Thus, beanies, the Old Pine, Winter Carnival, and even Palaeopitus can be looked upon as useful traditions from the College's important history.

Yet Dartmouth, an institution supposedly superior to most of her contemporaries, is not unlike the average American college in many respects. Dartmouth has been unable to avoid the apathy and conformity that plague today's institutions. Dartmouth has fallen victim to a stereotype that forces individuals to conform to the will of the masses and ostracizes them if they dare to resist.

However, a happier and more mature approach to education and the world is overcoming many Dartmouth students. Nestled in the solitude of New Hampshire, Dartmouth has long been shielded from the outside world. The New Hampshire hills have served as a fortress in keeping the outside world from trespassing into our Hanover paradise. Fortunately, the outside world has been frequenting the Hanover Plain and has begun to awaken the College from her two-hundred sleep.

The Dartmouth of 1967 is an institution where each student can be his own person. However, this individuality is not an easy accomplishment. The traditions of the College are imbedded far too deeply to allow for the complete abolishment of the old codes. To go against the "system," to rebel, to be an individual at Dartmouth College is somewhat less than easy. However, the College is beginning to realize that the individualist and not the conformist contributes the most to the College and his fellow students.

President Dickey concludes each Convocation Address with the following words: "First, you are citizens of a community and are expected to act as such. Second, you are the stuff of an institution and what you are it will be. Thirdly, your business here is learning and that is up to you." Strange though it may be, Dartmouth 1967 is slowly awakening to the fact that our business here is learning; and that more and more students are shouldering the responsibility.

The students of the modern Dartmouth still strive to be Dartmouth men. The difference being that increasing numbers of students are realizing that the truest definition of manliness must include sensitivity, intellectualism, and concern for others. That is why responsive Dartmouth students wish to change the "stuff of the institution". This is why students are examining their relationship with the college and the role of that college in the modern world.

The 1970's at Dartmouth will either be a time of realization of maximum potentials or a period of slow dissolving back into the stereotypes and traditions of the past. It will hopefully be a time when student activism (involvement and concern in what's happening to Dartmouth) will arouse the campus and allow the students to shape the College instead of Dartmouth molding the students.

Student activism can best be advanced on the Dartmouth Campus through student interest. The days when students would sit in their rooms and complain to each other about the faults of the College are leaving. The days when dissatisfied students speak out for their rights are arriving. Three such groups on the campus that have tried to promote student interest are The Dartmouth Experimental College, Student Government, and the Afro-American Society.

The D.E.C. has afforded a completely new medium of expression within the community. It has opened the way to education not attainable in the classroom or in everyday life. It has and is attempting to involve the students.

Student Government is the most publicised, most condemned, least participated in, and least effective organization on the Dartmouth Campus. Yet, although it could either die out or suffer a painful rebirth, student government helps to link the students and the Administration. It is desperately attempting to initiate a more liberal approach to education that is so necessary to the progress of the College.

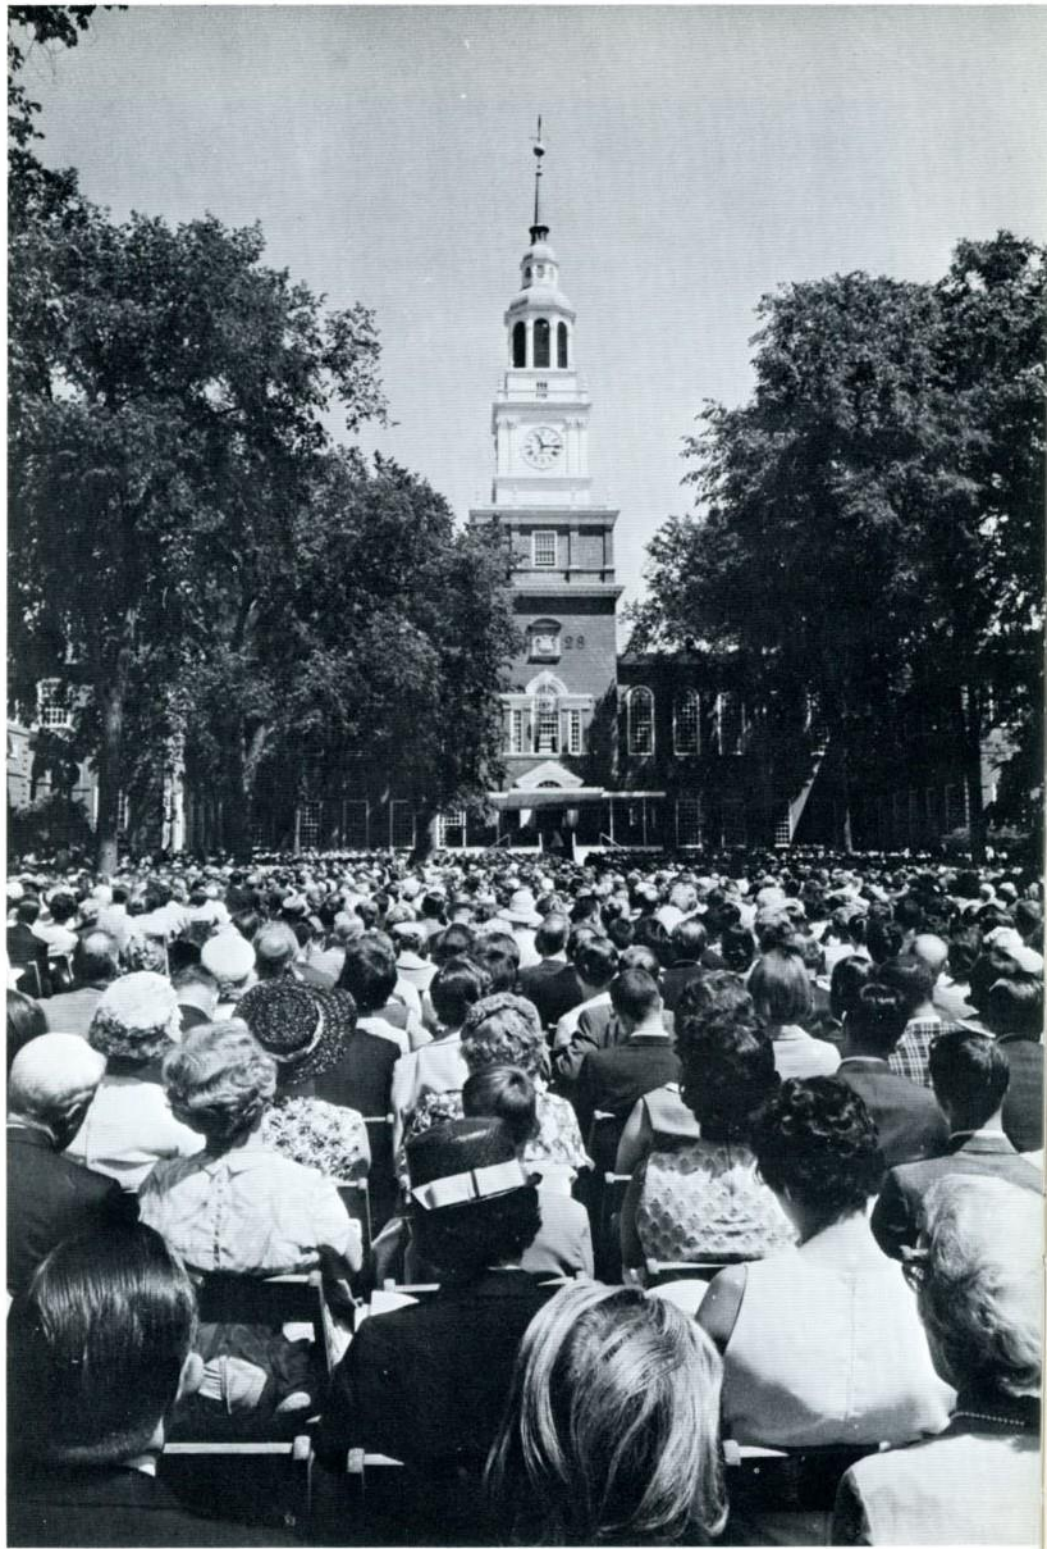

The Afro-American Society has done more to awaken the Dartmouth community than all the other campus organizations combined. The Negro's problem, and all world problems, are not absent from Hanover. The A.A.S. has shown, although at times painful and frightening, that Hanover and Dartmouth must not stay immune to the outer world.

Dartmouth still retains many of the traditions that characterized her earlier days. Dartmouth still fosters apathy and conformity. However, Dartmouth is changing. The words of the future are activism, individuality sensitivity, and learning. The time for the students to continue the revolution at Dartmouth is now. The battles will undoubtedly be raging over the next four years and hopefully, beyond. This is an invitation, a request, a plea for you to help Dartmouth become the great institution it should be.

BENNINGTON COLLEGE

Bennington, Vermont

Whenever life begins to be a little dull up here in Hanover and you want a change, a real CHANGE, then go to Bennington. We guarantee you a road trip that you will never forget. Indeed, you may not want to remember it. The reason for our recommendation of Bennington as a change of pace from the JUNIOR-LEAGUERS of Wellesley and Vassar is because the place is a bit unusual. Although our pictured representation above may be slightly exaggerated, the general atmosphere of Bennington is something that no one going to Dartmouth should miss. Yes, no brave, adventurous, fun loving, bannana loving Dartmouth man will consider his four years here complete without at least a sampling of the wilds of Bennington and its inhabitants.

You can go anytime without forewarning the girls but, in case you are cowardly, conservative, or both, the switchboard is open until 11:00. Once you arrive you can stay forever because there are no, zero, 0, parietals. The number is 442-5401.

BRADFORD JUNIOR COLLEGE

Bradford, Massachusetts

Bradford Junior College somehow ended up in Bradford, Massachusetts, a loving little hamlet situated very close to Haverill. According to one of the many myths surrounding Bradford Junior, their students "may neither keep nor drink beverages containing alcohol in Bradford or Haverill." However, before you begin to write these charming women off your list let us inform you that most of them are wealthier than Tri-Kap and just as well endowed. Perhaps it just comes down to what you are looking for in a date or perhaps (shudder) in a wife. We think that most Dartmouth men are usually able to find what they are looking for somewhere at Bradford. That is they're good dates if you are willing to try.

The switchboard closes at 10:30 weekdays and Sundays, 11:00 on Fridays, and 12:00 on Saturdays. Call 372-7161.

COLBY JUNIOR COLLEGE

New London, New Hampshire

Although Dartmouth is rumored to be at least 120 miles away from the nearest datable females, that is not true. Just a half-hour away, in New London, New Hampshire, exists Colby Junior. When you became a Dartmouth man you also automatically became the future date for some lucky Colby girl. You cannot escape! It's kind of like smoking, everyone tries it at least once just to see what it is like. And why not? Even though the mutual geographical isolation suffered by both of our schools does enhance the frequency with which Dartmouth men date at Colby, they would be good dates no matter where you found them. You see, Colby is one school where you can find a girl different from the society-minded, matronly girls that abound at some of the other Eastern girls' schools.

Call Colby Junior College at 536-2020 before 11:00 p.m. and ask for dorm extensions.

GREEN MOUNTAIN JUNIOR COLLEGE
Poultney, Vermont

Ah yes, good old Green Mountain. Known at Dartmouth by a more affectionate nickname, this college affords about the same advantages as Colby with two marked exceptions. First, New York, is very, very close. Second, it takes more trouble than you would believe to get a date there. You gotta call before you go there because you don't get on the campus unless you have a specific person you're intending to visit. And then once you manage to outwit the menacing guards you come up against the real test, the loveable old housemothers. Here we find the antithesis to the nice old ladies that all girls supposedly eventually turn into. So you argue, show her about fifteen sets of I.D.'s, hustle your date into the car, and finally head over to the Manor for some good, All-American fun. Yesiree—Green Mountain provides romance, adventure, and kicks.

THE M. I. T. CO-ED
Boston, Massachusetts

Nestled in the heart of Boston is M. I. T. Unlike most of the best schools in the east, M. I. T. is radical enough to admit women to their school. Amazing. However, we have reason to believe that the M. I. T. co-ed represents dating possibilities for the Dartmouth undergraduate. Before the advent of the new computer and beautiful Kiewit, the M. I. T. girl always felt intellectually superior to us. However now, for you math jocks and adventurous weenies, the M. I. T. woman can be competed for. Just think, she could come up for Houseparties. You could spend Friday night figuring out the number of Lumens per square foot in the bonfire. Saturday afternoon you could dink around with your slide rules (have races solving physics problems, etc.) and climax the weekend; with a romantic walk through Dartmouth's answer to the Parthenon, lovely Kiewit. If you work fast you might even get an invite to see their cyclotron.

Call 000-30-34-30 between 6 and 7 on Sunday.

MOUNT HOLYOKE COLLEGE
South Hadley, Massachusetts

With Mount Holyoke we encounter the first of the Seven-Sister girls' schools. Although we may have exaggerated the picture somewhat, the general Holyoke personality is a bit back-woods. Real nice dates though, the kind of date that you would want your mother to meet, but fun too. Smart, usually fairly cute. All of these things are adequate descriptions of Holyokes. However, it would be unfair of us to not say a few more things. If you like to date girls from prestige schools then Holyoke is the best there is. They are not snobby and overly conceited; they are the best dates of the Seven-Sisters'. One warning though—stay clear of South Hadley. The most exciting social event of the year is the annual Lucia May Wyaat Speech Contest and Oratory Review held each Ground-hog Day. If you do go down to South Hadley, the best bet is to take your date over to Amherst and sponge off one of their numerous fraternity parties.

You can call 536-4000 anytime before 11:00 p.m.

MARY HITCHCOCK
SCHOOL OF NURSING
Hanover, New Hampshire

The basic problem that exists between the girls of Mary Hitchcock and the men of Dartmouth is that Dartmouth men think that they are too good for 99.9% of the nurses. Whether or not this is true remains a personal value judgement. What is certain is that far too many Dartmouth men do not see if there are good dates at the Nursing School but prefer merely to take the word of some equally ignorant upper classman. So, our word is to at least sample the females down there before passing judgement. We guarantee you an experience to rival all girls schools with the possible exception of Bennington.

Connections can be made by calling 643-4000 and waiting for the needed extension, or, for the more adventurous, by walking down.

RADCLIFFE COLLEGE

Cambridge, Massachusetts

The basic obstacle confronting the ambitious Dartmouth man wanting to date a Cliffe is Harvard. Not that we have anything against Harvard, it is just that old thing about supply and demand. However, you never can tell what someone will get you for a blind date for Carnival so if you ever happen to be (lucky/unlucky) enough to get a Cliffe for a date this is what you can expect. They are obnoxiously smart. Some are beautiful. Some aren't. They all are wonderfully liberal in their thinking. They are sort of beat. They wear knee boots, carry book bags, ride bikes everywhere, and have stringy hair that hangs to their shoulder blades. This description shouldn't scare you off because a Cliffe girl would definitely be a bonanza.

SIMMONS COLLEGE
Boston, Massachusetts

Simmons dates are good dates but not great dates. In fact it is hard to say anything for or, for that matter, against them. For the most part your Simmons girl will not be as intelligent as you are but she won't be an imbecile either. She will probably have her share of the world's money and will know all the spots to have a good time in Boston. They seem to be pretty good looking girls who are not quite in the class with Wellesley or Radcliffe. In short, if you are having a tough time getting a date from Wellesley or Radcliffe you won't be wasting your time if you try Simmons.

SKIDMORE COLLEGE

Saratoga Springs, New York

If Saratoga were not such an ugly town Skidmore would be a much better college. As it is now, Skidmore is fantastic. Great. Located in liberal New York, the school is a great place to trip to during the year. The number of beautiful girls is astonishing and they aren't overly fussy about whom they date. It really is next to impossible to get shot down at Skids. Perhaps the best way to approach a Skidmore roadtrip is to go down to the famous "Hour" that occurs every Friday at 3:00. What more can we say. Go to Skidmore and partake of the bounties of Saratoga and its lovely inhabitants.

The lines are open until 11:30 and can be reached by phoning 584-5000 and asking for the correct extension.

SMITH COLLEGE

Northampton, Massachusetts

Smith'. It is the largest girls school in the country. It is one of the Seven-Sister schools that are most frequented by Dartmouth students. Although a rather boring and trite cliché, Smithies are good dates to tell your mother about. In fact, a Smithie would be a good date to take on a double date with your parents. They are nice and sweet. However, this facade may break down if you can get them to abandon the image that they try so desperately to uphold. You see, Northampton stifles all manners of college-type fun by its puritan laws and thus the Smithie has her problems shaking this atmosphere. If you go down there, take her to Amherst. Hopefully she will break out of her act. Most do and then become excellent dates. However, the initial few dates are heck.

Call 584-2700 and ask for the dorm extensions.

VASSAR COLLEGE
Poughkeepsie, New York

Note the above picture for it fits in perfectly with the age-old Vassar myth. Thinking of Vassar as a haven for the likes of Edna St. Vincent Millay, wearing the latest fashions complete with six inch monogram, having impeccable manners, and all its students being listed in the social register, Dartmouth students have been a little wary before migrating the FIVE hours necessary for a Vassar roadtrip. However, rejoice. Vassar is not the mid-victorian prude of the legends, on the contrary, the girls are human and fun seeking. According to a reliable source, the Vassar girl is just as progressive as the Cliffie and just as wholesome (groan) as the Wellesley girl. We don't know just what the truth is, we only know that the girls are pretty, it's in New York, and highly recommended. The trip is definitely worth a try.

VERMONT COLLEGE
Montpelier, Vermont

After looking at the picture above you can see that there is little else that we can say to describe V. C. Although the picture may be a bit ambiguous, we think that the basic nature of the Vermont girl should be obvious. Not that we are trying to reflect upon the intellect of the girls or their personalities, we merely are attempting to convey the fact that at Vermont College the girls are of a special breed. No fancy monograms for these girls. V. C. is just a good place, conveniently located to find a good date. Excellent for a last minute road trip.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Wellesley, Massachusetts

The Wellesley girl is unfortunately very conscious of the fact that she is from Wellesley. This self consciousness inhibits her reactions to the degree of becoming a conservatives' conservative. That is very sad. However, mature adults that we are, we are most concerned with the inner girl. And there are no greater rewards to be had than if we break down the Wellesley Personality facade and experience the quintessence of her being (whew). Seriously, if you can wade through the preliminaries you will find the Wellesley girl to be a great date. It definitely is worth your time and trouble to road trip down near Boston. Good Luck.

WHEATON COLLEGE
Norton, Massachusetts

Not too many things are known about Wheaton. Most of the things you hear are merely baseless. From what we can gather the Wheaton girl is a sort of a hybrid. On the one hand we have the crusader, the type of girl that gets straight A's in high school, runs for class president, and gets her first kiss at twenty-eight. However, when you consider that Wheaton is as isolated as Dartmouth (there are zero boys near Norton) the All-American image doesn't seem to fit. It would seem more than logical for the Wheaton girls to be as anxious to see boys as Dartmouth men are to see girls. They are. Thus, a Wheaton girl has a pseudo Wellesley facade that takes five minutes to break through. Needless to say they usually prove to be great dates (unless they really are crusaders).
